Our Mission

Project Gutenberg is a world-wide library of the greatest works of literature that have passed into the public domain and were first published before January 1, 1923. Many of the works in Project Gutenberg's collection are in the public domain because they have been created by their authors, translators, editors and illustrators, who have died at least 70 years ago.

Terms of Use

Project Gutenberg eBooks may be freely used in the United States because most are not protected by U.S. copyright law. They may not be free of copyright in other countries. Readers outside of the United States may need to check the laws of their countries before accessing.
Copyright holders are often generous. We also have a number of copyright holders who have given permission for their works to be provided worldwide use.

The Project Gutenberg website is for human users only. Use of automated tools to access the site is expressly prohibited.
This site utilizes cookies, which are small text files
used to help identify individual users and help ensure the site is reasonably available for human users. See full terms of use here.

Project Gutenberg is an online library of free eBooks. Michael S. Hart, founder of Project Gutenberg, was the first person to digitize and freely distribute important works of literature worldwide. He also founded the Free Books Project which has a number of copyright holders who have given permission for their works to be provided worldwide use.

About Project Gutenberg

What is Project Gutenberg?

Project Gutenberg is an online library of free electronic books, or eBooks. Project Gutenberg is a volunteer effort to digitize, archive, and distribute literary works.

The mission of Project Gutenberg is: To encourage the creation and distribution of eBooks.

Read more about Project Gutenberg in the About section.

Where did Project Gutenberg come from?

In 1971, Michael Hart was given $100,000,000 worth of computer time on a mainframe of the era. Trying to figure out how to put these very expensive hours to good use, he envisioned a time when there would be millions of connected computers and tuned in the Declaration of Independence (all in upper case—there was no lower case available). #### Electronic Mail

The best way to get in touch is by email.

Please note:

- You cannot click on the address, but must copy it to your email program manually and adjust it to be a valid email address. We apologize for the inconvenience but this helps hide our addresses from spammers.
- Include a descriptive subject line, or your email may end up in our spam jail.
- Don't send email as HTML only, or only within attachments.
- Be patient. We get a lot of email. Most inquiries get a response within a day or so, but sometimes this takes longer.
- Didn't get a response? Please check your spam filter, since items sometimes end up there.

Please select the most appropriate address from this list.

1. help2022 (at) pgaf.org

General help. Requests for information about Project Gutenberg eBooks or the Project Gutenberg Web pages.

2. errata2022 (at) pgaf.org

Errata within eBooks. To report an error within an eBook (such as a missing word or typo), please be sure to include the eBook number or specific filename or download link you used. Error reports are easiest to handle when they clearly indicate the context in which an error was found.

Note that since Project Gutenberg includes many old titles, it is common for unusual spelling or arcane word uses to be used. If possible, check a printed source to verify whether an error exists, before reporting it. Messages to the errata list generate an automatic response that your report was received, within a few minutes.

Any errata/bug/typo report is welcome! There is additional guidance in the FAQ on how to prepare errata reports so they are easiest for the Project Gutenberg team to handle. Start with this guidance on how to report typos.

3. catalog2022 (at) pgaf.org

Catalog metadata errors. Report an error in the online catalog (such as a misspelled author name). There is no automated response, but typically your message is handled within a few days.

4. copyright2022 (at) pgaf.org

Project Gutenberg copyright inquiries.

For licensing questions, permissions and other such inquiries, the answer is probably in our Permission How-To. Please don't send email without first checking the How-To.

See cand.pgaf.org before reporting potential misuse of copyrighted materials. Responses are typically sent within two days.

5. gnewby (at) pgaf.org

Contact the CEO of the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, Dr. Gregory Newby. If you don't get a response within a few days, please first check your spam filters & similar for a response. Resend your message, if no response is received within a few days.

Postal Mail

If you need to send printed mail, please consider instead scanning and emailing to the appropriate address above. But if you really need to send something physical, send to this address:

Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation
809 North 1500 West

Newsletter and Discussion Lists

- Mailing lists
- How to subscribe to mailing lists

There is a monthly email newsletter, also some discussion lists for discussions among volunteers (gutvol-d is the only list that still has occasional activity).

Distributed Proofreaders

The Distributed Proofreaders site includes active forums, FAQs and other items of interest for eBook lovers, eBook creators and potential creators. Contact information is available at the site, and online forums are also used for discussions and inquiries.
